BY CLICKING "ACCEPT ALL," "REJECT ALL," OR ANY OTHER BUTTON ON THE NOTICE BANNER THAT RECORDS YOUR COOKIE CHOICES, BY CLOSING OR DISMISSING THAT BANNER, OR BY CONTINUING TO BROWSE OR USE THE WEBSITE, YOU ACKNOWLEDGE THIS POLICY. THE COOKIES WE USE DEPEND ON THE CHOICES YOU MAKE ON THE BANNER, AS DESCRIBED IN SECTION 4.

1. Introduction and Scope

1.1 Operator of the Website. My Happy IT Inc., a Nevada corporation doing business as ShelfPatrol, a provider of inventory management software based in Carson City, Nevada ("ShelfPatrol," the "Company," "we," "us," or "our"), owns and operates the website located at shelfpatrol.com, including every page, subdomain, feature, form, download, and item of content made available through it (the "Website"). The Website does not include the ShelfPatrol web application made available at app.shelfpatrol.com, or any other product or service that requires an account (together, the "Application").

1.2 Purpose and scope. This Privacy Policy (the "Policy") describes how we collect, use, disclose, retain, and otherwise process information in connection with the Website and with communications directed to us by email, telephone, mail, or any other channel concerning the Website or a prospective or existing business relationship with us.

1.3 Nature of this Policy. This Policy is a notice of our practices. To the fullest extent permitted by law, it is not a contract and does not create contractual rights or obligations.

1.4 Relationship to the Terms and Conditions. Access to and use of the Website are governed by our Terms and Conditions, also referred to as the Terms of Use (the "Terms"). Capitalized terms used but not defined in this Policy, including "Banner," "Company Parties," "Cookies," "Dispute," and "Submission," have the meanings given in the Terms. If this Policy conflicts with the Terms, the Terms control, except that this Policy controls as to the description of our information practices.

1.5 Definition of personal information. "Personal information" means information that identifies, relates to, describes, or is reasonably capable of being associated with a particular individual, as defined by applicable law. It does not include aggregated, de-identified, or anonymized information, or publicly available information to the extent excluded by applicable law.

1.6 Acknowledgment and consent. When you accept the Terms in any of the ways described in Section 1.2 of the Terms, including by clicking "Accept All," "Reject All," or any other button on the Banner that records your Cookie choices, closing or dismissing the Banner, continuing to use the Website, or providing information to us, you acknowledge that you have read and understood this Policy and you consent to the collection, use, and disclosure of information as described in it, subject to your Cookie choices under Section 4. If you do not agree with this Policy, you must not use the Website or provide information to us.

1.7 Information about other individuals. If you provide information about another individual, you represent that you are authorized to do so and to permit us to process that information as described in this Policy.

We may obtain information about you from: (a) our Affiliates; (b) clients, partners, vendors, referral sources, and your employer or colleagues; (c) service providers that support hosting, security, analytics, consent management, and communications; and (d) publicly available sources, professional networking platforms, business directories, and commercial data providers.

3.5 Combination of information. We may combine information from any of these sources and process the combined information as described in this Policy.

4. Cookies and Similar Technologies

4.1 Use of Cookies. We and our service providers use cookies, pixels, tags, scripts, web beacons, log files, and browser local and session storage (together, "Cookies") on the Website. This Section 4 describes the same practices as Section 13 of the Terms.

4.2 Categories of Cookies. We use Cookies for the following purposes:

(a) Strictly necessary. To deliver pages, keep the Website secure, balance load, detect spam and automated traffic, prevent abuse, and record your Banner selection. These Cookies are always active because the Website cannot function without them.

4.3 The Banner and your consent. When you first visit the Website, and from time to time afterward, we display the Banner. The Banner lets you accept all Cookies, reject all Cookies other than strictly necessary Cookies, or choose by category. Cookies other than strictly necessary Cookies are used only in the categories you accept, and strictly necessary Cookies remain active regardless of your selections. Your Cookie choices do not affect your acceptance of the Terms. We store your choice in a Cookie on your device so that we do not need to ask you on every visit, and your choice remains in effect until you change or withdraw it.

4.4 Your choices. You may change or withdraw your Cookie choices at any time by using the "Your privacy choices" link in the footer of the Website, where available, or by adjusting your browser settings to refuse or delete Cookies. Analytics and other providers may also offer their own opt-out tools. Withdrawal does not affect processing that took place before it. If you refuse, block, or delete Cookies, parts of the Website may not work correctly, your display options and privacy choices may not be remembered, and the Banner may be displayed again. We are not responsible for any loss of functionality that results from your Cookie or browser settings.

4.5 Third-party Cookies. Some Cookies are placed by service providers that help us host, secure, measure, and improve the Website. Those providers may collect information about your online activities over time and across different websites. Their Cookies are governed by their own privacy policies and terms. We do not control their technologies and, to the fullest extent permitted by law, we are not responsible for their practices.

4.6 Recording of interactions. Where we or our service providers use analytics, security, or similar tools on the Website, those tools may collect and record your interactions with the Website, as described in Section 3.3(b), and we may disclose that information to those providers for the purposes described in this Section 4. As provided in Section 13.6 of the Terms, you consent to that collection, recording, and disclosure.

4.7 Do Not Track. There is no uniform standard for browser "Do Not Track" signals, and the Website does not respond to them.

4.8 Opt-out preference signals. As stated in Section 6.1, we do not sell personal information or share it for cross-context behavioral advertising. Where applicable law requires us to honor an opt-out preference signal, such as Global Privacy Control, we will process that signal as that law requires.

4.9 Changes to Cookies. The Cookies we use may change from time to time. We may add, replace, or discontinue any Cookie in our discretion. The Banner, any preference center, and this Policy describe our current use, and we will update them where the law requires.

5. Use of Information

To the extent permitted by law, we may use information for the following business and commercial purposes:

(a) Responding and communicating: to review, route, respond to, and follow up on inquiries.

(g) Security, integrity, and enforcement: to monitor use of the Website; to detect and prevent spam, fraud, abuse, security incidents, and other harmful or unlawful activity; and to investigate violations of, and enforce, the Terms and our other agreements.

(h) Legal and regulatory compliance: to comply with laws, regulations, legal process, and government requests; to meet tax, accounting, audit, insurance, and record-keeping requirements; and to establish, exercise, or defend legal claims, including any Dispute.

(i) Corporate transactions: to evaluate, negotiate, or complete a merger, acquisition, financing, reorganization, sale of assets, or similar transaction.

(j) Aggregation and de-identification: to create aggregated, de-identified, or anonymized information, which we may use and disclose for any lawful purpose.

(k) Other purposes: for any purpose disclosed when the information is collected, any purpose to which you consent, and any other purpose permitted by law.

6. Disclosure of Information

6.1 No sale of personal information. We do not sell personal information, as "sell" is defined under applicable law, and we do not share personal information with third parties for cross-context behavioral advertising or targeted advertising.

6.2 Categories of recipients. We may disclose information to the following categories of recipients:

(a) Affiliates: for the purposes described in this Policy, including to enable the appropriate business to respond to you.

(b) Service providers and contractors: persons that perform services on our behalf, including website hosting, email, information technology support, security, analytics, Cookie and consent management, customer relationship management, communications, payment processing, and administrative support.

(c) Professional advisors: attorneys, accountants, auditors, insurers, financial institutions, and consultants.

Information we hold may be transferred as a business asset in any such transaction.

(f) Authorities and others for legal purposes: courts, arbitrators, regulators, law enforcement authorities, and other parties, where we believe disclosure is required by law or legal process, or is appropriate to protect the rights, property, or safety of any Company Party or of others, to investigate fraud, security incidents, or misuse, or to enforce the Terms and our other agreements. Where permitted by law, we may make these disclosures without notice to you.

(g) Other parties: any other person, at your direction or with your consent.

6.3 Aggregated and de-identified information. We may use and disclose aggregated, de-identified, or anonymized information without restriction.

7. Sensitive Information and Submissions

7.1 Do not send sensitive information. The Website is a general business website and is not designed or intended to receive sensitive or confidential information. As provided in Section 11.1 of the Terms, you must not send us, through the Website or by email, any passwords or access credentials, payment card or bank account details, Social Security or other government identification numbers, health or patient information (including protected health information), biometric, genetic, or precise location information, information about children, trade secrets, or any information that you or anyone else regards as confidential.

7.2 Assumption of risk. Any such information that you choose to send is sent at your sole risk. You consent to our processing of it to the extent necessary to address your communication, and we may delete it. No business associate, confidentiality, non-disclosure, or data processing agreement arises from your use of the Website.

7.3 Submissions. Submissions are governed by Section 11 of the Terms. Except for personal information, which we process as described in this Policy, each Submission is non-confidential and non-proprietary.

7.4 No relationship created. As provided in Section 6 of the Terms, sending us a message or receiving a reply from us does not create a client relationship or any advisory, fiduciary, or other relationship.

8. Communications and Marketing Preferences

8.1 Communications from us. We may contact you by email, telephone, text message, mail, or other means using the contact details you provide. These communications may include responses to your inquiries, administrative and relationship communications, and, where permitted by law, marketing communications about us and our Affiliates.

8.2 Consent to communications. As provided in Section 12 of the Terms, you consent to receive communications from us electronically and, if you give us a telephone number or email address, to be contacted at it about your inquiry and about any existing or prospective business relationship, including by calls, text messages, and email, where permitted by law.

8.3 Marketing email opt-out. You may opt out of marketing email at any time by using the unsubscribe link in the message or by contacting us as provided in Section 18. We will give effect to opt-out requests within ten (10) business days.

8.4 Non-marketing communications. Opting out of marketing does not stop non-marketing communications, including responses to your requests and notices about an existing relationship, the Terms, or a legal matter.

8.5 Text messages and telephone calls. We do not send marketing text messages or place marketing calls using automated technology without the consent required by applicable law.

9. Retention

9.1 Retention period. We retain information for as long as reasonably necessary to fulfill the purposes described in this Policy, and for any longer period permitted or required by law. Those purposes include responding to you, maintaining business relationships and records, meeting legal, tax, and accounting obligations, resolving Disputes, enforcing our agreements, and protecting the security of the Website.

9.2 Retention criteria. In setting retention periods, we consider the nature and sensitivity of the information, our relationship with you, legal requirements, limitation periods, and any pending or anticipated Dispute or investigation.

9.3 Correspondence, logs, and consent records. Email and other correspondence may be retained as business records without a fixed retention period. Server logs and security data are retained under our standard practices and those of our hosting provider. Records of your Banner selection, Cookie choices, and acceptance of the Terms may be retained for as long as they may be needed to establish, exercise, or defend legal claims.

9.4 Cookies on your device. Cookies remain on your device for periods that vary by Cookie. You can delete them at any time through your browser settings.

9.5 No obligation to retain. We have no obligation to retain any information for any particular period. We may delete or de-identify information at any time, and residual copies may remain in backup or archival systems for a period afterward.

10. Security

10.1 Safeguards. We maintain reasonable administrative, technical, and physical safeguards designed to protect the information we hold, having regard to its nature. The Website uses HTTPS to encrypt information transmitted between your browser and the web server.

10.2 No guarantee of security. No method of transmission or storage is completely secure, and email in particular may not be encrypted at every stage of transmission. We do not guarantee or warrant the security of any information, and, to the fullest extent permitted by law, any information you transmit to us is transmitted at your own risk.

10.3 Your responsibilities. You are solely responsible for your own devices, software, browser settings, internet access, security protections, credentials, and data backup.

10.4 Incident notification. Where applicable law requires us to notify you of a security incident, we may do so by email, mail, telephone, notice posted on the Website, or any other method permitted by law.

10.5 Reporting security concerns. You may report security concerns to us as provided in Section 18.

11. United States Processing; International Visitors

11.1 United States website. The Website is operated from the United States and is intended for users located in the United States. We do not direct or market the Website to individuals located in the European Economic Area, the United Kingdom, Switzerland, or any other jurisdiction outside the United States.

11.2 Location of processing. Information is processed and stored in the United States and in any other location where we, our Affiliates, or our service providers operate. The laws of those locations may differ from, and may offer less protection than, the laws of your place of residence.

11.3 Access from outside the United States. If you access the Website from outside the United States, you do so on your own initiative, and you acknowledge that information you provide, and information collected through Cookies, will be transferred to and processed in the United States. To the extent permitted by law, you consent to that transfer.

11.4 Cookie consent outside the United States. As provided in Section 13.9 of the Terms, if the law of your location requires prior opt-in consent for Cookies that the Banner does not satisfy, you must not use the Website unless and until you have given that consent.

11.5 Application of non-U.S. law. To the extent a privacy law of a jurisdiction outside the United States applies to our processing of your information, we rely on the legal bases available under that law, including our legitimate interests in operating our business and responding to you, the performance of a contract, compliance with legal obligations, and, where required, your consent. You may contact us as provided in Section 18 to exercise any rights that law gives you.

12. Privacy Rights and Choices

12.1 Rights that may be available. Depending on where you live, and subject to applicable exceptions, you may have some or all of the following rights:

(a) to confirm whether we process your personal information and to access it;

(b) to correct inaccurate personal information;

(c) to delete personal information;

(d) to obtain a portable copy of personal information;

(e) to opt out of the sale of personal information, targeted advertising, and certain profiling;

(f) to limit the use of sensitive personal information;

(g) to withdraw consent previously given, including consent to Cookies under Section 4.4; and

(h) to be free from retaliation for exercising a right conferred by law.

12.2 Limitations. These rights are not absolute. They are available only where conferred by a law that applies both to you and to us. Many privacy laws apply only to businesses that meet specified size or activity thresholds, and many exclude information collected in a business-to-business context. We will honor requests to the extent required by law. Where the law does not require us to act on a request, we may grant or decline it in our discretion.

12.3 Submitting a request. You may submit a request to the email or mailing address in Section 18 or through the contact form on the Website. Each request should state the right you wish to exercise, your state or country of residence, and enough detail for us to locate your information.

12.4 Verification and authorized agents. We may verify your identity and authority before acting on a request and may require additional information for that purpose. Where an authorized agent submits a request, we may require written proof of the agent's authority and may confirm the request with you directly.

12.5 Response. We will respond within the period required by applicable law and may extend that period where the law permits. To the extent permitted by law, we may decline a request that: (a) we cannot verify; (b) is manifestly unfounded, excessive, or repetitive; (c) would adversely affect the rights, privacy, or safety of another person; (d) would require disclosure of privileged, confidential, or security-sensitive information; or (e) conflicts with a legal obligation or falls within a statutory exception.

12.6 Fees and retained information. Where permitted by law, we may charge a reasonable fee for requests that are excessive or repetitive. After a deletion request, we may retain information needed to complete a transaction, maintain security, comply with law, or establish, exercise, or defend legal claims, including records of your acceptance of the Terms.

12.7 Appeals. If we decline your request and the law where you live gives you a right to appeal, you may appeal by replying to our decision with "Privacy Appeal" in the subject line. We will respond within the period required by that law. If your appeal is denied, you may contact the attorney general of your state.

12.8 Requests are not legal notices. A request under this Section 12 is not a Notice of Dispute under Section 21.2 of the Terms or any other legal notice under the Terms. Those notices must be delivered as the Terms require.

13. State-Specific Notices

13.1 Application. This Section 13 supplements the rest of this Policy for residents of the states identified below. It applies only to the extent the laws referenced apply to us and to you.

13.2 Requests not to sell. We do not sell personal information. Where state law entitles you to direct us not to sell personal information that we have collected or will collect about you, you may still submit a verified request to that effect to info@shelfpatrol.com with the subject line "Do Not Sell Request." You may also ask to review, and request changes to, personal information collected through the Website by following Section 12.3.

13.3 California online privacy disclosures. The categories of information we collect are listed in Section 3. The categories of parties to which we may disclose it are listed in Section 6. Our response to Do Not Track signals, and the possibility of third-party collection of information about your online activities, are addressed in Section 4. How we give notice of changes to this Policy is described in Section 17.

13.4 California Shine the Light. California residents may request information about our disclosures, if any, of personal information to third parties for their own direct marketing purposes during the preceding calendar year. Send requests to the address in Section 18 with the subject line "California Shine the Light Request."

13.5 California Consumer Privacy Act. The California Consumer Privacy Act applies only to businesses that meet specified thresholds. To the extent it applies to us:

(a) the categories of personal information we collect, and their sources, are described in Section 3 and correspond to identifiers, customer records, commercial information, internet or network activity, professional information, and general location;

(b) the purposes for which we collect and use personal information are described in Section 5;

(c) the categories of recipients to which we disclose personal information for business purposes are described in Section 6;

(d) we do not sell personal information or share it for cross-context behavioral advertising, and we have no actual knowledge that we sell or share the personal information of any individual under 16 years of age;

(e) we do not use or disclose sensitive personal information for purposes that would give rise to a right to limit its use;

(f) our retention practices are described in Section 9; and

(g) California residents may exercise the rights to know, delete, correct, and opt out, and the right to be free from discrimination for doing so, as described in Section 12.

13.6 Other states. Residents of other states with consumer privacy laws may have rights comparable to those in Section 12.1, to the extent those laws apply to us. We do not sell personal data, process personal data for targeted advertising, or engage in profiling that produces legal or similarly significant effects, as those terms are defined in those laws.

13.7 Nevada. We do not sell covered information as defined under Nevada law. Nevada residents may submit a request on this subject to info@shelfpatrol.com with the subject line "Nevada Do Not Sell Request."

14. Children

14.1 Adults only. The Website is intended for business audiences and for adults. As provided in Section 2 of the Terms, you must be at least 18 years old to use the Website or to submit information through it. The Website is not directed to children, and we do not knowingly collect personal information from anyone under 18.

14.2 Information received from a minor. If you believe that anyone under 18 has provided personal information to us, please contact us as provided in Section 18. If we learn that we hold such information, we will delete it as required by law.

15. Third-Party Websites and Services

The Website may contain links to, or operate with, websites, content, and services operated by third parties, including our Affiliates and the providers of Cookies described in Section 4.5. We do not control, endorse, or assume responsibility for the content, security, or privacy practices of those third parties. Their own terms and policies apply, and you should review them before providing any information.

16. Disputes; Application of the Terms

16.1 The Terms govern Disputes. Any Dispute about this Policy, privacy, data, or Cookies in connection with the Website is governed by the Terms, including Sections 17 through 23. Those Sections contain a disclaimer of warranties, limitations of liability, a release, a mandatory Notice of Dispute procedure, an agreement to resolve Disputes by binding individual arbitration, a class action and jury trial waiver, a Nevada governing law and exclusive venue provision, and a one-year time limit to bring claims. Please review them carefully.

16.2 No warranty; no third-party rights. Except as required by law, this Policy does not create any warranty or guarantee and does not give rights to any person.

16.3 Other agreements and notices. Where you are party to a separate written agreement signed by our authorized representative, or where we give a more specific privacy notice for a particular service or interaction, that agreement or notice governs its subject matter.

16.4 Non-waivable rights. Nothing in this Policy limits any right that cannot lawfully be waived or limited, or restricts your ability to contact a government regulator.

16.5 Interpretation. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect meaning. "Including" means "including without limitation." The English-language version of this Policy controls over any translation.

17. Changes to This Policy

17.1 Right to amend. We may amend this Policy at any time, in our sole discretion, by posting a revised version on the Website with a new Effective Date. A revised Policy takes effect on the Effective Date shown on it, unless the law requires otherwise.

17.2 Material changes. We will give notice of any material change by posting the revised Policy on the Website, and we may also display the Banner again or send notice by email. Where the law requires additional steps, such as direct notice or consent, we will take them.

17.3 Continued use. Your continued use of the Website after a revised Policy takes effect is your acknowledgment of it. Please review this Policy each time you use the Website.
